

TOWN WIPED OUT, 350 PERSONS DIE IN WATERSPOUT

Water Flowed Through the Village an Hour and a Half, and One Hotel Was Destroyed with All Its Occupants.

More Than One Hundred Bodies Have Been Recovered from the Ruins of Heppner, Ore.—Other Places Said to Be Flood-Swept.

SPOKANE, Wash., June 15.—A waterspout flooded Willow Creek and wiped out the town of Heppner, Ore., yesterday evening, according to the meagre advices received here, between 350 and 500 people. Communication is interrupted by the storm. The latest advices, received four hours ago, were that the bodies of 105 of the drowned had been recovered.

Among the drowned are:
HOWARD, THOMAS, and family.
HINDS, ROBERT, and family.
DAWSON, Mr. and Mrs. H. A.
JONES, JAMES, and family.
M'SWARD, Dr.
RHEA, family of S. A.
OARRIS, and family.
ANDREWS, Mrs. CHARLES, and child.
WELLS, ———
YIEGER, Dr.

It appears that the waterspout generated between 6 and 7 o'clock in the evening, when most of the people in the town were in their homes at the evening meal. Willow Creek, ordinarily an insignificant stream, became an irresistible torrent, sweeping all before it.

OTHER LIVES MAY BE LOST.
The town of Heppner had about 1,250 inhabitants and is the county seat of Morrow County, Ore. It is the terminus of a branch of the Oregon Railroad and Navigation Co. The country roundabout is rich in farming and grazing lands and if the reports of loss of life in the town itself are true, additional loss of life must have been caused throughout the lowlands along Willow Creek in the country.

Messengers have been sent from Ione and Arlington for full advices. Officials of the Oregon Railroad and Navigation Co. have been notified that their depot in Heppner has been washed away and that there has been heavy loss of life there.

TREMENDOUS STORMS ELSEWHERE.
Telegrams received here indicate that there were waterspouts and tremendous storms all through the Northwest yesterday afternoon and evening. Butte, Montana, reports that the Northern Pacific Railroad thereabouts is tied up by damage done by waterspouts. Valley Creek, spanned by the Northern Pacific with a bridge 100 feet high, was so swollen by a waterspout that part of the bridge was carried away.

The first definite news reached Arlington by messenger and confirms the report that 300 persons were drowned. Wire communication will be established shortly. The cloudburst was so tremendous that Willow Creek overflowed the town of Heppner for an hour and a half, utterly wiping out all the buildings in its path.

The Heppner Hotel was washed away and all in it at the time were drowned. Practically there was no warning of the rush of waters, as the cloudburst occurred some distance from the town, and the first intimation of danger came in the shape of a wall of water sweeping down the valley of the little creek.

Whole families were carried away. Corpses are scattered for miles along the route of the flood and days must elapse before the full extent of the catastrophe becomes known.

MANCHURIAN PORTS ARE STILL CLOSED

All Other Clauses of American Commercial Treaty with China Settled.

SHANGHAI, June 15.—The terms of the American commercial treaty have been settled, except the clause providing for the opening of two Manchurian ports. The treaty abolishes all interior trade barriers in the shape of internal taxation of goods in transit in China or Manchuria, except the duties collected by the native custom-houses at the treaty ports.

The couple separated about four years ago, and the wife went to Brooklyn to live. About four weeks ago she returned here to live with her daughter.

(Special to The Evening World.) GRAVESEND, June 15.—Outsiders won both stake events at Gravesend this afternoon, furnishing stunning surprises. The May Stakes went to W. R. Condon, an 8 to 1 chance in the betting, who led all the way. This race was featured by heavy plunges on Minotaur by Davy Johnson and Frank Farrell, while Newton Bennington planned heavily on Toscan. The favorite was John A. Scott. He ran a disgraceful race and was finally eased up in the stretch.

The Astoria Stakes was also featured by plungers. A stranger went the round of the ring betting cash on Dusky, an unknown filly, starting for the first time. He offered Mattie Loran $500 each way, and bet other bookies in proportion. The race went to an outsider, Ocean Tide, owned by Senator McCarren. The Astoria is a sporting stake, and the winner is obliged to dine the other subscribers and bow the full amount of the stake. Senator McCarren will dine the others at the Waldorf.

The opening event was won by Locket, a 7 to 1 chance, and Africander, the favorite, won the second.

Locket, a mud-runner from Mudville, skinned to the front in the first sixteenth, made all the running and won cleverly by a length and a half from Daisy Green, who was a head in front of Rostand.

SECOND RACE.
One mile and a sixteenth. Betting: Africander, 125, Odum, 2 1/2, 1 1/2, 15-20; Duke of Kendal, 101, 0'Brien, 12 1/2, 11 1/2, 6-2; Colonsay, 92, Creamer, 4 1/2, 4 1/2, 12-5; Aloha, 105, Burns, 5 1/2, 5 1/2, 15-20; Infatigable, 101, 0'Brien, 12 1/2, 11 1/2, 6-2; Start good. Won handily. Time—1:50.

Africander went to the front soon after the start made all the running and won easily. Colonsay chased him as far as the stretch, where he stopped and gave way to Duke of Kendal. The latter was hard hustled all through the stretch, but Africander had the race in hand and won handily by a length. Duke of Kendal was four lengths in front of Colonsay.

Minotaur as backed to win thousands. Davy Johnson bet as much as $10,000 on him, and Frank Farrell made one bet alone of $2,000 with Billy Cowan. Newton Bennington plunked on Toscan and the public took John A. Scott. Plunkers and public were at sea. W. R. Condon and Minotaur raced to the front and Condon soon took the lead. After that it was a procession. W. R. Condon led all the way and won, pulled up by two lengths from Minotaur, who beat Toscan a length for the place.

FOURTH RACE.
Five furlongs. Betting: Ocean Tide, 114, Bullman, 2 1/2, 1 1/2, 15-20; Tepee, 114, Burns, 5 1/2, 5 1/2, 15-20; Julia M., 114, 0'Brien, 12 1/2, 11 1/2, 6-2; Dusky, 111, 0'Brien, 12 1/2, 11 1/2, 6-2; Forward, 98, Landon, 10 1/2, 10 1/2, 6-2; Captator, 101, Gannon, 10 1/2, 10 1/2, 6-2; Start good. YACHTS HELD UP BY BAD WEATHER

An 18-Knot Breeze and Rough Seas for the Try-Out of Reliance with Constitution and Columbia Off Glen Cove.

COURSE IS TRIANGULAR.

(Special to The Evening World.) GLEN COVE, L. I., June 15.—After waiting for nearly an hour at the starting line, the committee boat signalled at noon to-day that the race between Reliance, Constitution and Columbia was postponed until later in the day. The postponement was due to the tardiness of the three sloops in moving away from their moorings. The wind at that hour was blowing at an eighteen-knot rate, kicking a high sea. The unfavorable weather conditions served to delay the sloops.

Soon after noon the wind shifted to north by east and held steady. Heavy showers came up with the change of the wind. The yachts cruised about, those on board waiting patiently for a sight of the ninety-footers.

At 12:35 the preliminary signal was sounded and the course signal hoisted. At that time there were ready to start five small sloops and two or three schooners. None of the cup yachts appeared, and it was evident that they did not care to wet their sails or to risk an accident in a stiff northeaster.

No reason was known at the time for the non-appearance of the ninety-footers, but it was supposed that they did not care to wet their sails or to risk an accident in a stiff northeaster.

PETER WILL ACCEPT HIS NEW THRONE

Adherents of the Legitimized Son of Ex-King Milan Post a Proclamation Declaring Him to Be the Rightful Monarch and Fighting Follows.

KARAGEORGEVITCH IS CHOSEN BY ASSEMBLY.

People Look to Him to Redeem the Unfortunate Country from Its Present Troubles, and a Great Ovation Awaits Him Upon His Arrival at Belgrade.

GENEVA, Switzerland, June 15.—Prince Peter Karageorgevitch has telegraphed his acceptance of the Serbian throne. He says he will assume the title of Peter I.

King Peter has issued a proclamation to the people of Serbia. He thanks the Servians who have shown a desire to return to the traditions of their ancestors. He promises to be faithful to the traditions, drawing special inspiration from the memories of his regretted father. The King promises to ignore all that has happened during the past forty years and not to bear ill will to those who opposed him. He concludes with promising to respect the rights of all employees of the State, whom he invites to remain in the positions to which they are legally entitled and to resume the normal conduct of their duties.

King Peter will probably start for Belgrade Thursday evening by way of Vienna, accompanied by his Swiss attendants. His residence is watched by private detectives.

Young Milan had recently been living in Constantinople. His partisans posted a proclamation on the walls of Belgrade, and it was torn down by King Peter's supporters, after a free fight.

Word has been received from Geneva that King Peter will start at once for this city.

King Peter telegraphed to the Emperors of Russia and Austria and to the King of Italy announcing his election and adding that he hoped to work for the good of Serbia.

Pledge Loyalty to Peter.
King Alexander's former private secretary, M. Petronovich, who was regarded as one of the most faithful of the late King's adherents, has caused a sensation by telegraphing to King Peter in the name of the entire Petronovich family their desire to render homage to King Peter, assuring him that they will serve him as faithfully as they served King Alexander.

It is stated that King Peter will refuse to receive Col. Machin, the chief of the conspirators, on his entry into Belgrade. This, if true, threatens to cause difficulties, as the presence of Col. Machin is regarded as indispensable at the reception, and pressure is being brought to bear on the new King to induce him to yield.

The most momentous occurrence outside of course, of the election of King Peter since the assassination has been the suicide of Lieut. Lazar Javanovitch, of the Sixth Infantry, who killed himself because he was not allowed to participate in the murders in the Palace.

Prince Makes Conditions.
The conditions insisted upon by Prince Peter before he would accept the election are said to be that all the conspirators and officers concerned in the murders of King Alexander and Queen Draga shall have left Belgrade before he enters, and that as King he shall be granted an increase in the civil list. Some say also that he insisted that his election be unanimous.

RIOTING IN SOFIA.
Eight Men Wounded in Fight of Socialists and Nationalists.

BERLIN, June 15.—The Frankfort Zeitung prints a despatch from Sofia, Bulgaria, saying that rioting occurred there to-day between Socialists and Nationalists in which eight men were wounded. The rioting was caused through the Socialists seizing a hall in which M. Sakoff, an Oppenheimer member of the Bulgarian National Assembly, had called a meeting of Nationalists.

The latter, on finding the hall occupied by the Socialists, broke in and answered with firing revolvers.

POLICY MURDER FINDS A SWIFT RETRIBUTION

William Spencer Indicted an Hour After He Had Shot Charles MacFarlane, Superintendent of the Goddard Society, in the Corridor of the Criminal Courts Building.

SLAYER WAS ABOUT TO BE TRIED ON CHARGE OF PLAYING POLICY.

The Negro Lay in Wait for the Chief Crime Hunter, Fired Two Bullets Into Him, Killing Him Instantly, and Wounded Philip Bray, a Detective for the Society.

On the threshold of Part IV. of the Court of General Sessions, in the Criminal Courts Building, Supt. Charles F. MacFarlane, of the Goddard Anti-Policy Society, was shot and killed to-day by William Spencer, alias Rogers, a negro, who was awaiting trial on a charge of having policy slips in his possession.

Philip Bray, assistant superintendent of the society, who was with MacFarlane, was struck by a stray bullet and wounded in the left arm.

The galleries around the great court in the building were crowded; all of the courts were in session, and the various offices were filled with persons on business when the noise of the shots echoed through the inclosure. The word pandemonium does not describe the scene following the shooting—the frantic struggle of the murderer with the men who seized him, the running to and fro of frightened witnesses of the crime, the rush of hundreds to the second, or General Sessions, floor.

SPENCER QUICKLY INDICTED.
Within an hour after the shooting Spencer had been indicted for murder in the first degree by the Grand Jury and his picture had been taken for the Rogues' Gallery at Headquarters. Less than three hours after the shooting he was arraigned, and on next Monday he will be placed on trial for his life in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court.

When the indictment against Spencer was handed up to Recorder Goff the negro was in the court-room. The Recorder asked him if he had employed counsel and if he had means to employ counsel.

Spencer said he had no counsel and no means, but he expected that perhaps his friends might get a lawyer for him. Recorder Goff said he would assign counsel, and named former Civil Justice Wauhope Lynn to take charge of Spencer's case.

"Do you want to plead now or do you desire to consult with your counsel?" asked the Recorder.

"I guess I'd better talk to my lawyer first," said Spencer. Pleading to the indictment was deferred until to-morrow. District Attorney Jerome notified the court that he would move the trial of the case next Monday. Spencer was taken to the Tombs, where he expressed a desire to food saying that he had breakfasted earlier than usual and was hungry.

WENT ARMED TO KILL.
Spencer, a big, flashy negro of the type common in the Tenderloin, went to the Criminal Courts Building bent upon killing MacFarlane. He had three other negroes with him when he went upstairs in the elevator to await his victim.

These negroes were near at hand to help him in his murderous design, but he proved so successful unaided that they made their escape in the excitement.

The court officers on duty at the door of the court-room seized Spencer, and Capt. O'Connor, of the Tenderloin station, who happened to be in the building, went to their assistance. He was hustled to the headquarters of the Court Squad, where he made the following statement to Sergt. Walsh: "This man has been following me and telling lies about me for seven weeks. When met him to-day outside the court-room I ups and asks him why he was telling lies about me. He told me to go to h—, So I took a few shots at him. He drove me to it by telling lies about me."

The noise of the shots—four in all—reverberation through the wide reaches of the interior of the building brought out of the court-rooms and offices hundreds of men and women. News of the tragedy sped from lip to lip, and there was a wild rush for the gallery upon which the murder had been committed.

COURT-ROOM DOORS CLOSED.
Business in the building was paralyzed. Justice Cowing, sitting in Part IV, adjourned his court at the time. Other judges ordered the court-room doors locked. Soon the news spread to the street and the building was so jammed that it was impossible to move from one floor to another until reserves were mustered.

The testimony of eye witnesses is that the murder was absolutely cold-blooded and that MacFarlane had no chance to defend himself. He was killed by Spencer because the negro knew that if he should be placed on trial and MacFarlane's evidence should get on the record prison would be his fate.

MacFarlane and Bray arrested Spencer on May 11. He gave the name of William Rogers, and as such was indicted on June 10, but the Anti-Policy officials who had arrested him before knew him by his real name, Spencer.

The negro was in Part 4 for trial on Friday. On motion of former Justice Wentworth, his counsel, the hearing was adjourned to to-day.

MACFARLANE KILLED INSTANTLY.
Spencer took up a position just outside the door of the court-room and watched the elevator. MacFarlane and Bray stepped from the elevator together and walked toward the door of the court-room.

Spencer stepped up in front of them, drew a revolver and began firing. The first bullet pierced MacFarlane's head and he died instantly. Another
